

Rink Report

Pool standings on every parent's phone, updated the moment your scorer's table enters a result.

Four hundred parents. One question. All weekend.

Most events answer "where do we stand?" with a sheet taped up near the concession stand, updated whenever somebody gets a minute. By Sunday morning it is the busiest piece of paper in the building and the least trusted one.

This puts the same answer on their phone and keeps it current without anyone doing extra work.

WHAT IT DOES

- Pool standings that keep themselves current — enter a score, every table recalculates
- Bracket games stay out of pool play — nothing to separate by hand, nothing double-counted
- Your tiebreakers, not generic ones — head-to-head, then goal differential capped per game so one blowout can't buy a seed
- Opens on any phone — no app, no login, no account, nothing for a parent to work out

WHAT YOU DO

Nothing new. Your scorekeepers already write down every result. That is the only input it needs.

One screen. The next game at the top, then the pool tables underneath, then every result of the weekend.

No menu to learn and nothing to install. They open the link, and if they open it again an hour later it has moved.

A sample weekend: two pools, a Sunday bracket, and a head-to-head tiebreak deciding the top seed.

YOUR EVENT, YOUR NAME ON IT

Event name, your colors, and a sponsor's logo if you sell that space. Parents open it repeatedly across a weekend, which makes it stronger inventory than a rink board nobody photographs.
